

cont. from page 15

Seminoles

Game day is family and friends turning tailgate parties into reunions, sharing their passion with old friends and new, and reminiscing.

IT'S AN EXPERIENCE SHARED.

And you can get all of this for less than the cost of a trip to the movie theatre, where you will sit in quiet silence.

What was the last movie you saw where there was a scene so moving that you leapt from your seat, $12 bag of popcorn be damned, fist pumped the air and screamed "Hell Yeah!"

Have you ever been to a movie where you and your kid were so emotionally into it that the two of you spontaneously high fived each other and screamed?

DIDN'T THINK SO.

When was the last time you really let your emotions flow over something that is just plain fun?

There's something cathartic about a football game where you can let your guard down in front of the world and show your emotions. You'll see big burly guys, grumpy grandparents and even your normally stoic accountant screaming like teenage girls at a Justin Bieber concert and lining up to have their picture made with a football player like he was a Disney character.

Where else can you go, where you and the people you go with, all share in the passion and emotion together.

